

SPECIAL NOTICE

We wish to advise passengers that arrangements are under way to have you carried as soon as possible to your destinations by air or sea. Details will be announced at your evening meal.

It is estimated that the vessel should be able to sail by Tuesday evening. Until the Galley is back in operation, Passengers still on board will continue to be provided with meals ashore.

We will have the air conditioning in operation again not later than 8.00 pm tonight.

This should relieve the inconvenience you have put up with so far and the Master and Company wish to thank you for your continuing co-operation and forbearance.

The Health, Marine Authorities and the High Commissioners for Britain and New Zealand inspected the Ship this morning and have commended the Master and the Ship's complement for the efficient manner in which this near disaster was handled and the steps which have been taken to restore the Ship's services and facilities.
